Training in Supervision

Friday, 1st and Saturday, 02nd February 2019

We are offering training over two days for Accredited Members of the C.G. Jung Institute Zürich, Küsnacht, who want to become a supervisor – and for all interested Psychotherapists and Psychoanalysts.

Two senior supervisors will provide theoretical input and 'live-supervision'. This can take the form of individual supervision in front of the training participants, who will discuss the work done afterwards together. It can also be group supervision. The participants are invited to bring with them case material out of supervisions or therapies, that they feel could benefit from supervision.

Abstracts

Group Supervision and the Transforming Power of Group Dynamics

Dominique Lepori, lic. oec. et phil.

This module serves as an introduction to group supervisory processes. We will be looking at group processes both theoretically as well as practically. We will go through some important theories from group analysis and connect these with concepts from Analytical Psychology as well as experience what happens when we present a case in a group and try to understand what enhances a group supervisory process.

Please bring your own examples from your practice as both analyst and supervisor, or from your experience of being supervised.

Culture-sensitive Aspects in Supervision

Evy Tausky, Dipl. CGJI

Working with analysands means to open up to different cultural backgrounds and awareness. As supervisors we can be confronted with at least three different cultural sensitivities at a time, those linked to the analysand, the supervisee and the supervisor.

Using clinical material, we will tend to highlight these sensitivities on the personal and the collective level, recognize various emotional reactions and their effect in transference and counter-transference.

Participants are invited to bring their own examples from their practice as both analysts and supervisors, or from their experience of being supervised.
